

Contribution ID: 0

Type: not specified

Alessandro Strumia – Nature natural again

Monday, 12 June 2017 10:00 (1 hour)

LHC data are contradicting theoretical ideas that lead to expect new physics able of keeping the Higgs mass naturally small, such as supersymmetry. I will discuss the possibility that we might have over-interpreted quantum field theory, and present alternative views about what is going on.